ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A good biography is one that achieves high levels of authenticity, substance and interest. To reach these levels, the biographer needs much assistance from first hand sources (people who were there) and from people who have strong expertise in the subject being written about. I was very fortunate in having the assistance of many good people who were highly qualified in the above named categories. I am pleased and honored to mention their names below and to offer profound thanks to each of them. This book could not have been written without them.

Jerry Hays is currently the Archivist and Historian for the United States Judo Federation. From the very first time that I reached out to him for assistance, Jerry has been exceptional in the speed, quality and quantity of his responses. He has sent to me countless discs of past judo magazines, as well as the most important judo magazines themselves. He has had a comprehensive and informative answer for every question I placed before him. His love for the sport of judo always has been apparent and he is a true credit to the sport and an excellent ambassador for it.

Jon Bluming has been one of the most recognizable names on the international martial arts stage for the past fifty years. He has compiled an unbelievable record of achievement as a competitor, coach and good will ambassador for the martial arts all over the world. Furthermore, he has had a warm and close relationship with the Judo Twins during that time and has written an excellent Foreword as well as some other interesting reminiscences, all of which contribute so much to the book. Many warm "bear-hugs" to you Jon.
