Boseigakujuku

The origin of Bosei Gakujuku is a small private school opened in 1936 by the late Dr. Shigeyoshi Matsumae, the founder of the Tokai University Educational System (TES). The school's name, "BOSEI" (hitching hopes to a star), has its origin in the passage of "Chain thy hope to the stars" of the motto dedicated by the founder.

Today, Bosei Gakujuku is actively offering a number of unique classes, and a place of lifelong education to society.

We are still located at the original site in Musashino, Tokyo.

Matsumae Judo Juku

The BoseiGakujuku runs the MatsumaeJudo Juku, School of Judo. All of the instructors of this program are from Tokai University, and is organized and supported by Tokai Judo. The school was founded in 1976. We currently have approximately 240 members, with ages varying from toddlers to senior citizens. Our youth team won the 2nd place at the National Championship in 2007, 2008, 2010, and the 3rd place in 2015.

NPO-Solidarity of International Judo Education

- To promote the international popularization of Judo and realization of Jitakyoei (mutual prosperity for oneself and others).
- To communicate the Japanese spirit.
- To educate youth through Judo.

Program

Study on the Boseigakujuku and Dr. Shigeyoshi Matsumae, the founder of Tokai University

The late Dr. Shigeyoshi Matsumae, the president and founder of Tokai University Educational System, was born in 1901. From an early age he developed an interest in both Science and Judo. Dr. Matsumae entered Tohoku Imperial University and studied vacuum tube technology. After graduation, he worked for the Ministry of Communications. He then conducted cable research and invented a new type of telephone cable. In 1933, he was sent to Germany to learn more about Western technology.

In 1936, Dr. Matsumae opened a small private school, Bosei Gakujuku, which later became the Tokai University, at his residence. This academy lasted until his military conscription in 1943. He had approximately one hundred students, including the future president of NEC, Nippon Electric Company.

Since he was against the war and the military government, he was exiled to the Philippines as a punishment. Fortunately, he survived and was released from the military in 1945. Dr. Matsumae subsequently served six terms as the National Diet Representative from 1952 to 1969. Although his primary focus was on building up an educational empire, he also had an avid interest in domestic politics and world affairs. Dr. Matsumae served as the president of the International Judo Federation (IJF) from 1979 to 1987. Since 1966, he was president of the Japan Cultural Association, a nonprofit group promoting cultural and academic exchanges with other countries, particularly the Soviet Union and the eastern European countries during the cold war era.

In recognition of his work, Dr. Matsumae received honorary degrees from foreign institutions, including Moscow University, Miami University, Dresden Technical University, Budapest Technical University, and Tufts University. Dr. Matsumae passed away in 1991.
